EDITOR'S PREFACE

The difficulty in sustaining participatory student government at an art school is the frightfully simple fact that artists are impossible to organize. Consequently, the aim of student government should be the cultivation of a creative anarchy, an anarchy which provides a free and open environment, a community of artists whose existence is defined by action rather than elitist structure. Such a situation can exist only when we develop a communal spirit which recognizes each of us is responsible for effecting change.

Alice: "Yes but where do I begin?"

Cheshire Cat: "Why my dear, you begin at the beginning."

A Message from the President

A dialogue is always preferable to a formal statement and is clearly preferable to that archetypal vehicle for platitudes, the President's Message. I look forward to more meaningful opportunities for communication as we work together this year. For now, simply: welcome back.

Dean of Students' Message

By any reasonable standards this should be an exciting year for 750 people at the Massachusetts College of Art. A new President — Jack Nolan, a greatly expanded student enrollment, new curriculum and faculty, a large annex with good working space and, finally, serious planning underway for a building that can begin to meet the expectations of the contemporary artist.

There's a lot happening. Be a part of it. Work with your Student Government, faculty and administration. The roles we play are not nearly as important as our contributions. And one more thing — welcome to the Massachusetts College of Art.

Academic Dean's Message

In days of swift change, such as those in which we live, severe strain is placed on the fabric of values and procedures through which we exercise ourselves as members of society. Caught up in surges of popular feelings, it is all too easy to exchange one conformity for another or to elevate trivia to the level of serious regard.

Experiencing life—not merely observing it—is necessary to add depth to understanding. The faculty will seek in the coming months to broaden your experience and your understandings and, in exchange, to enrich their own perceptions through the mutual exploration of these elements. I trust you will find deep satisfactions in such exchanges and in growing awareness of your capacity to distinguish that which is of lasting value.

S.G.A. — President's Message

"But the doctrine that you desire, the absolute, perfect, comprehensive and instructive doctrine, does not exist. You should not yearn for this, my friend, but only for self perfection. The Godhead is in yourself, not in theories and in books. Truth must be lived, not taught."

(Hesse).

Therefore come and live.

History is often represented by the Roman god, Janus, with one face looking toward the past and the other toward the future. History is not factual representation but a distortion through perspective. Furthermore, it is doubtful whether history is anything more than a predeterminer of circumstance and alternatives. We should be forgiven for this intrusion into the past as we make our blundering way through it.

Today a proposed art school can cost upwards of $30 million. In January, 1873, over 96 years ago, Walter Smith, a renowned Art educator spirited away from Britain by the Commonwealth, asked for $15,000 "to rent and fix up premises and conduct normal art classes to be free to every teacher of drawing in the state who will attend them." This was an experiment rationalized as "an economic action, practically the only way to provide the teachers." Smith persuaded the state, then in an economic boom due largely to burgeoning textile and shoe industries, that it was getting something for, what was then, a relatively nominal sum, providing drawing instruction with the ultimate purpose of feeding industries needs. Mr. Smith's portrait is now enshrined in our corridors. In November 1873 the doors were opened at 33 Pemberton Square, Boston, to "86 ladies and 47 gentlemen" in cramped, insufficiently supplied rooms of what had once been a private dwelling. Despite these odds the school thrived, even then turning away applicants and receiving high recognition from Europe. From there the Massachusetts Normal Art School occupied a succession of buildings on School Street, the Deacon House on Washington Street and then the recently dismantled pseudo-Romanesque building on Newbury — at Exeter Street, of which last year we gallantly tried to save the main portico. The curriculum was still dedicated solely to the purpose of teacher training but now included areas of electives such as decorative arts, modeling, drawing and painting, and composition.

In 1912 the courses were expanded to twelve departments and the collegiate terms of Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior were adopted along with a bit of charming tradition:

For the little Freshman GREEN, for his springtime
For the digging Sophomore, BROWN, earth's hue
For the hopeful Junior, GREY, for clouds are lifting
For the ardent Senior, heaven's own BLUE.

Each class supposedly has its respectively colored smocks. A student association following shortly after and sporadic publication of a school paper, THE CENTER OF VISION, since then changed to the ART GUM, since then changed to the Intaglio, and last year entitled This Year's Paper.

In 1924 to meet the needs of the program leading to the Bachelor of Science in Education degree, courses in English, History, Sociology, and Psychology were added.

The star of MNAS was on the rise and many creative endeavors ensued such as a Pageant of Art through the Ages which played to packed audiences two evenings at the Copley Theatre. There was also the Alma Mater written by Emma (Asbrand) Hopkins, MNAS '89.

THE NORMAL ART FOREVER

Hail! Hail! Hail! the Normal Art Forever!

Crowned through years with loyalty's endeavor,
Cheer! Cheer! Cheer! From Thee we would not sever!

Hail! Hail! Hail! Each passing year.

To our land a gospel Thou art bringing,
All Thy clear traditions now are ringing,
Messengers of taste and beauty winging,
Parent School, we speed thee on thy way.

To be sung in C minor with tongue held firmly in cheek.

In 1930 the MNAS moved from Newbury Street to what was at its occupation a "functionally designed and equipped building" and what is now our over-crowded home.

During the war years and after, Mass Art rose to the call of her country. The school was given a Civil Defense award and in the post-war period participated in a veterans' program.

In 1950 the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts was awarded to graduates of the painting and various design departments and was followed by the BFA for Ceramics Department graduates in 1954.

In 1959 we changed our name through an act of the legislature and the school was fully accredited.

These past two years have been ones of change for the school. The student body has grown more contemporary. Where past generations have put one big toe into the future to see if it was agreeable, we dive right in. Students are more conscious of their position in determining school policy. The Student Government Association is well on its way to being more than a social organization and more like a student government.

In 1930 several clubs existed such as Crafts, Magic, Poetry, Sketching, and Glee Clubs, a String Ensemble, and a Mascot Theatre. These have largely died away and we have had trouble breathing life into a newspaper. But, this is due not to apathy but to channelling all our efforts into the Student Government.

For the first time in almost 40 years we are expanding our territory due to increased enrollment. We have strong promise of land acquisition in Newton, Mass.

We are now settling from a state of flux with a new President chosen with student and faculty participation, and other changes, more than have occurred in the past forty years, a new student constitution, students having an opportunity to serve on various governing committees such as curriculum, academic standards, and admissions policy committees.

The past is a bucket of ashes, the future we hold in our hands.

FINANCIAL AID PROGRAMS

At the Massachusetts College of Art there are several programs available to help students meet their financial needs:

National Defense Student Loan Program: To help meet expense, students may apply for N.D.S.L. Money borrowed is repaid after graduation at 3% interest with special loan cancellation of 10% per year for five years should the graduate become a teacher. Freshmen should not apply until after they register.

Educational Opportunity Grant Program: For students with severe financial need, the College has available the Educational Opportunity Grant Program under which a student may receive a grant ranging from $200 to $800. Those making application for admission to the college may apply for a grant prior to registration.

Work-Study Program. A third Federal Program available to students at the college provides part-time employment at the College. In this way, students may earn in the vicinity of $25 per week to help meet their costs. Freshmen are advised not to participate during their first semester.

Two other programs of which students should be aware include the Board of Higher Education Scholarship Program and the Higher Education Loan Program.

Board of Higher Education Scholarships. These scholarships are intended for needy and academically worthy full-time students attending regionally accredited institutions. Applications should be obtained by Freshmen from their high school guidance office. Applications can be obtained by upper-classmen at the College and must be filed by early May each year. Scholarships are awarded in the summer and are paid directly to the institution where the students are enrolled.

Higher Education Loan Program. This program is administered directly by local banks throughout the Commonwealth. Up to $1,000 per year may be borrowed with repayment of the principle beginning after graduation at 3% interest to be paid by the student. Inquiry about the Higher Education Loan Program should be directed to the student's local bank.

Questions regarding these programs may be directed to Dean McGavern at the Massachusetts College of Art.

HEALTH SERVICES

The Office of the nurse is located on the library level of the Longwood building above the fourth floor.

Because of the location of the College, medical attention is readily attainable at the Beth Israel or one of the other hospitals surrounding the College should a serious need develop.

I.D. cards are used for the purpose of identification in the library and at many of the College functions. It should be carried at all times. Loss should be reported immediately to the Dean of Students. Replacement charge is $1.50. Loaning this card to anyone subjects the holder to disciplinary action.

I.D. cards become void upon termination or interruption of enrollment and should be returned to the Academic Dean.

A mandatory $5 breakage fee is required of all students. This fee is paid only once during the student's stay at the College.

INSURANCE

The students at the College are offered an Accident and Sickness Insurance Program including a Major Medical Expense benefit. Each student received a flyer before the opening of school along with an application.

In addition to the voluntary insurance program, each student is required to purchase an $8 accident policy which will cover the student for one college year.

LIBRARY

The library which is located on the fourth floor of the Longwood building is open for service Monday thru Friday during the entire calender year. Hours of service are posted in the library.

The collection consists of books, periodicals, slides, recording tapes and pictures. The Library will welcome suggestions for purchases from students and hopes that all will take an active part in building the collection.

All books circulate for two weeks except a small number which are restricted to room use. A book may be renewed indefinitely until needed by someone. Reserve books, i.e. those requested by faculty for class assignments, circulate overnight from 2:00 P.M. to 9:00 A.M. the next day and over the weekend.

In order to meet the library needs of all members of the College Community, the prompt return of materials when due will benefit everyone.

MILITARY SERVICE

The Academic Dean will answer questions pertaining to military service. Male students are reminded that they must register with their draft boards upon reaching the age of 18. When a student receives his selective service number, he should report it to the office of the Academic Dean so that papers for student deferment may be submitted. After the Academic Dean receives the student's SSN, all forms for student deferment will be taken care of automatically until such time as a student withdraws or graduates.

Additional draft information may be obtained through the AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE DRAFT INFORMATION SERVICE, at 876-7939.

SCHOOL STORE
